Jackson Hole is the commonly used name for the broad-based valley that lies at 6,200 feet between two mountain ranges: the Tetons to the west and the Gros Ventres to the east. The town of Jackson is situated on the eastern edge of the valley near its southern end. Just to the north of town is the boundary of the National Elk Refuge, a 25,000 acre reserve created in 1912 that is home to the world's largest elk herd during the winter months. Further north are Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks as well as Togwotee Pass.

Banff & Lake Louise, Canada - September 24 - 28, 2010

Located in Alberta's Rocky Mountains and cherished by Canadians, Banff National Park is 6641 square km of vast untamed territory, begging to be explored. Wild animals roam the valleys, eagles soar over the snow-capped Rocky Mountain peaks, and pure water streams into rivers from 1,000 glaciers. Hundreds of years ago Aboriginal natives first discovered its beauty, quickly followed by explorers, map makers, and mountain climbers. Climb the same mountains, paddle the rivers, and inhale the air. That's pure alpine. The sheer number of adventures, both indoors and out, is as hard to count as the peaks stretching into the distance.

The Fairmont Banff Springs Surrounded by the majestic Canadian Rockies, this glorious mountain haven is truly unique, and few hotels in the world rival the majesty, hospitality and grandeur of The Fairmont Banff Springs. Styled after a Scottish Baronial castle, The Fairmont is a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and has provided the unique blend of luxurious comfort, individualized service and timeless beauty to the most discerning traveler for more than a century.
